Energy Testing

"The natural healing force within us is the greatest force in getting well."

--Hippocrates

In the Chinese system, every part of the body is correlated to one of the meridians - an invisible line of energy flow. The health of an organ or system is affected by the corresponding meridian and has a direct impact on the strength and energy of the meridian. By clearing and balancing the energies of the meridians, health can be established in the body and the psyche.

Energy Testing is a technique that assesses where in the body energy is blocked, reversed, scrambled or toxic. The Practitioner will then formulate and share an intervention plan to correct, and detoxify these energies which will help each participant regain and maintain optimal health.
